Should Women Ride Like Men?

The above subject having created considerable discussion in the English newspapers, the Lancet (London) now takes it up and concludes that it would fingers denote cruelty. Fingers long be as well to leave the determination of the question to those whom it principally concerns. We fancy they have no wish to change the custom. As a matter of fact, although it may not appear to be the case, the writer continues, the seat which a woman enjoys on a sidesaddle is fully as secure, and not as irksome, as that which a man has to maintain, unless he simply balances himself and does not gripe the sides of his horse either with the knee or the side of the leg. It is curious to note the different ways in which the legs of men who pass much time in the saddle are affected. Riding with a straight leg and a long stirrup almost invariably produces what are popularly called knock-knees. Nearly all the soldiers of the British army suffer from this deformity, as any one who will take the trouble to notice the men of the Life Guards and Blues walking may satisfy himself. On the other hand, riding with a short stirrup produces bowed-legs. Jockeys, grooms, and most hunting men who ride very frequently are more or less bow-legged. The long stirrup rider gripes the horse with his knee, while the short stirrup rider gripes him with the inner part of the leg below the knee. This difference of action explains the difference of result. No deformity necessarily follows the use of the side saddle if the precaution be taken with growing girls to change sides on alternate days, riding on the left side one day and on the right the next. The purpose of this change is to counteract the tendency to lean over to the side opposite that or ferent, yellow predominating .- Oswege which the leg is swung.

TELEGRAPHIC MATTER

Our latest correspondence, May 16, 1833, brings to ar the narrative of HENRY B. INGRAM, the General B.D. erintendent of the District Messenger Co. of New Haven, Conn. Mr. Ingram says: "For many months I had been sorely troubled with a weak and fired feeling across the loins, almost invariably accompanied with a headache. I had noticed also that at stated per ods following these cains my urine would be highly colored, and leave a heavy brick-colored sediment when allowed to stand in the vessel. I could not work, and I was discouraged to an stamping degree. Nothing helped me. I was prescribed for by some of the best physicians in New York City, where I was located at that time, but derived no benefit or relief. When almost ready to give up in despair an acquaintance said to me, 'I want you to try Hunt's Remedy.' Idid so, and hardly twenty-four hours had elapsed before I obtained relief, and in three weeks' time all the aforesaid afiments had disappeared, and I improved steadily, and was infused with new life, so that I could resume my business again, which is one that subjects me to strains of all kinds, which are likely to affect the kidneys, namely: Erecting telegraph and telephone lines. Hunt's Remedy now occupies the most honored place in my cabinet of medicines I would not be without it, and I cheerfully and heartly recommend it to all who are troubled with diseases of the liver, kidney, or urinary organs. It never fails to cure." 33 CENTRE STREET.

Mr. Gager is 80 years old, and has held this position of trust for 43 years, and hie word is as good as his bond. On May 5, 1833, he writes as follows: "For years I have suffered with disease of the kidneys and bladder, and have no besitancy in recommending Hunt's Remedy as a specific for these complaints. It has not only been the means of relieving me of terrible pain, but has cured a number of my acquaintances. To-day I am performing the duties of the office of Town Clerk, which I have held for forty-two years, which I could not be able to do were I not in a fair state of health owing to the use of Hunt's Remedy."
